Miss Anna C. McNicol, East Liverpool, Files New Trial Motion

PENDING ACTION

Ex-Auditor's Aid Is Found Guilty of Diverting City Funds

LISBON, March 7.—Counsel for Miss Anna C. McNicol, 59, today filed motion for a new trial upon her conviction for diverting $4,244.04 of East Liverpool municipal funds.

A veteran of 27 years of service as city auditor's office clerk, Miss McNicol was indicted for a $11,483.33 shortage.

Judge Lynn Griffith of Trumbull county, sitting here by assignment, deferred sentence and said he would hear the motion March 11.

The woman testified she "never took a cent of money belonging to the city of East Liverpool," but had "covered up" for a former city auditor, now dead.

Jury Out Two Hours
Miss McNicol was found guilty of the third count of the indictment, "the unlawful diversion and embezzlement of funds totaling $4,244.04. The first count charged her with the embezzlement of $11,483.33, while the second accused her of "larceny of $11,483.33 on a continuous impulse."

The jury of seven women and five men reported at 7:35 last night after two hours deliberations. It was understood that several ballots were taken before the verdict was reached.

Upon dismissing the jurors, Judge Griffith thanked them for their services and said he felt that they had returned a true and just verdict. The defendant's $3,000 bond was continued.

Pronouncement of sentence was delayed pending the filing of a motion for a re-trial. Miss McNicol faces a penitentiary term of from one to 21 years and a fine of double the amount of the embezzlement, according to court explanations.

The jury retired at 4 p. m. yesterday after defense counsel urged

POLITICAL FUNDS

Call Upon Congress To Tighten Up Other Election Laws

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 7.—The senate campaign investigating committee, reporting that the major parties had spent almost $22,000,000 at a minimum, during the 1940 presidential contest, recommended today that congress fix rigid limits on political funds and tighten up other federal election laws.

Republican groups were credited with expenditures of almost $15,000,000, and Democrats, with more than $6,000,000.

The special committee submitted a 10-point political reform program which included sharply worded minority statements from Senator Tobey (R-NH).

Asks Probe of Hague
Tobey asked a congressional investigation of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., powerful Democratic leader; charged that Oliver A. Quayle, Democratic national committee leader, had "lied brazenly and unhesitatingly" to the committee; questioned $300,000 loaned to Democrats by R. J. Reynolds; and criticized primary expenditures by Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.).

Reflecting a prolonged dispute among the five senators appointed to police last year's election, the special committee offered no specific "reformed" legislation. The majority found existing federal laws seeking to limit expenses of a presidential campaign to $3,000,000 and individual contributions to $5,000 in one year had been "largely ineffective."

It found that congressional attempts to limit contributions and expenditures of national committees to $3,000,000 a year under the Hatch Act, had resulted in "mushroom" growth of "independent committees," each claiming the right to raise and spend $3,000,000.

Limits Criticized
The committee also criticized the Hatch Act's $5,000 limit on individual contributions because it exempted contributions to state or

DAMAGES CLAIMED
BY INJURED WOMAN

LISBON, March 7.—William J. Winland of East Liverpool, doing business as the Winland Plate Glass Co. of that city, was named defendant in two damage actions filed in common pleas court Thursday, in which $15,000 is demanded.

The actions were filed by Lowry Marshall and his wife, Irene M. Marshall, the former demanding $5,000 and the latter $10,000 as compensation for injuries sustained by Mrs. Marshall. The petition alleges Mrs. Marshall slipped and fell on the snow and ice on a deteriorated sidewalk in front of the defendant's place of business, suffering a fractured left leg, bruises, shock and permanent injuries. Marshall asks the sum to compensate him for the loss of the society, services and assistance of his wife since the accident, which occurred Jan. 10, 1941.

Southern Michigan Power Plant Walkout Threat Is Averted

DISPUTES SOLVED

Negotiations, Meanwhile, Continue In Other Labor Troubles

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 7.—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he was considering creation of a labor board which would act not only as a mediation agency but would consider problems of labor, production and other factors entering into labor disputes.

The chief executive told a press conference he could only generalize about the proposed board but that it would not be merely a revival of the old Taft-Walsh board of World War days, since it might have a broader field.

At the same time, the chief executive spoke out against jurisdictional strikes among union men.

(By Associated Press)
Successful mediation efforts today had forestalled strikes in a number of industries important to the defense of the United States.

The threat of imminent walkouts was lifted from the Consumers Power company which serves 2,000,000 customers in southern Michigan; from the Rutland railroad in Vermont; and from the Ingersoll Iron Works whose Birmingham, Ala., plants hold $100,000,000 in defense orders.

Settlement of a steel strike at Orange, Tex., which had delayed work on naval destroyers was announced last night, although terms of the agreement between the Consolidated Steel Corporation and its employees were withheld.

Meanwhile, CIO employees at the Edgewater, N. J., plant of the Aluminum Company of America battled on whether to authorize union officials to call a strike for wage adjustments. The plant has 2,001 workers.

Four plants of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., in New Jersey and Pennsylvania were threatened with a one-day "work stoppage" Monday if the firm makes no concessions to CIO union demands for a closed shop and general wage increases.

Representatives of 40,000 CIO employees in 22 plants of Westinghouse Electrical company arranged to meet at Pittsburgh Sunday to determine what further steps to take in their campaign for a national agreement with the company and for a 10-cent hourly wage increase.

Negotiations were at a standstill

FIREWORKS SALE

Prohibition Applies To All Stands, In or Out Of City

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, March 7.—Enactment of the anti-fireworks bill which will become effective Aug. 1, is a personal victory for Senator O. E. Whitacre, a retired barber of Minerva, Stark county.

Four years ago he and Mrs. Whitacre were standing at the window of their home, watching youngsters load a toy cannon in the street.

Whitacre suggested they leave the window, since a son had suffered a crippled finger in a firecracker explosion. So they left the window.

A short time later the toy cannon exploded. A one-pound iron fragment was hurled through the window and embedded in a wall.

"So," he said in relating the story to the senate, "I am lucky to be here sponsoring this bill."

It was the third such measure that the Democratic senator had sponsored.

LET THIS SPRING

Weather Delays Operations To Date; Grading Is Under Way

The contract for paying the cut-off highway, which will parallel the county ditch south of Salem, will be let this spring by the state highway department, it was disclosed today by George Gonzales of Lisbon, resident state highway engineer.

Incentive weather has delayed extensive operations on the road to date, but highway department crews have managed to go ahead with the grading.

The cut-off, which will connect S. Ellsworth ave., or the Depot road, with the Lisbon road, will provide an outlet for trucks and is expected to be particularly beneficial to the city's industrial plants.

Gonzales said that plans call for the construction of a 24-foot highway with a high type of macadam paving. At the present time, however, the roadbed is being graded to a 44-foot width in the event the road is ever widened to accommodate four lanes of traffic.

Lawmakers Hit Amendment to British War Aid Proposal

LEASE-LEND FIGHT
STILL UNDER WAY

Every Day's Delay, Says Roosevelt, Will Hurt Democracies

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The senate rejected an amendment to the British aid bill which would forbid the conveying by American armed forces of war materials shipped out of the western hemisphere. The roll call vote was 62 to 28.

Vote on Mahoney Plan

The vote came on a proposal by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), offered as a substitute to an administration-sponsored amendment by Senator Ellender (D-La.). The Ellender amendment states that nothing in the measure should be construed as changing existing laws governing the land and naval forces.

While O'Mahoney had contended that his proposal as originally drawn would rule out convoys, he rewrote it slightly at the suggestion of Senator Bone (D-Wash.) so that Bone finally described it as "a blunt prohibition against convoys."

The vote on the O'Mahoney amendment came after opponents of the bill suddenly had shifted their strategy and Senator Clark (D-Mo.) had withdrawn temporarily a proposal to prohibit the use of any future appropriations to send American armed forces outside the western hemisphere and American possessions unless congress declared war.

Before the vote opponents and supporters alike of the measure had turned against O'Mahoney's amendment.

F. D. R. Hits Delay

Although together in disliking this proposal, by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), they were still poles apart on the bill as a whole and continued their arguments while at the White House President Roosevelt was saying that every day's delay would affect deliveries a little later on to what he termed the democracies.

INCREASE IN PAY

Officers Ask Restoration Of Scale Effective Prior to 1933

Members of two Salem municipal departments indicated today that they would appeal to city council shortly for wage increases.

The police, Chief Ralph Stoffer said, are seeking a restoration of the old wage scale of $165 a month, which was in effect prior to 1933.

During that year each policeman and fireman took a $40 a month cut, according to the petition which is to be presented council.

In 1935 councilmanic action resulted in a $10 a month raise. The following year a 10 per cent increase was voted, bringing the officers' monthly pay to $185.50.

The police explain that four years have elapsed since council last acted in their behalf and that present-day conditions warrant restoration of the full amount.

Firemen did not sign the petition. Service department workers are understood to be considering an appeal to council for an increase from their hourly rate which at the present time is 50 cents.

Cincinnati Students On Holiday; Furnace Men Refuse Terms

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, March 7.—Movie houses, gymnasiums, and a few libraries opened their doors to rush business today while cold furnaces and classroom radiators kept some 50,000 of Cincinnati's 58,400 school children from their studies for a second day.

While the pupils took their holiday the Board of Education invited representatives of 70 striking engineers, firemen, and oilers to a conference over their demands for increased wages.

The strikers, however, members of AFL-affiliated unions, scheduled a meeting of their own to discuss the action which has closed more than 50 of the city's 87 school buildings. Classes continued only in buildings heated by classroom stoves or in which the furnace men had not joined the strike.

Last night the strikers rejected a proposal of Supt. Claude V. Courter to "terminate the strike, then arbitrate" the demands for increased wages.

Turkey Stiffens, Bluntly Defies Germans; Controlled Press Warns Hitler of "Two Million Bayonets"

(By The Associated Press)

Turkey's controlled press bluntly defied Germany today, declared that the spread of war in the Balkans seemed inevitable, and warned Adolf Hitler that against his "handful of birdshot reassurances . . . stands two million Turkish bayonets."

One Turkish newspaper said boldly: "If Germany comes this way she will get such an answer to these reassurances as she never got before."

Greek diplomatic quarters expressed the belief that Turkey would send troops into the mountains of Grecian Thrace to help combat a German invasion of the little Aegean kingdom.

Earlier this week, Adolf Hitler sent an urgent message by plane to Turkish President Ismet Inonu in which the Nazi fuhrer was said to have asserted he desired only to look after Turkey's well-being.

Report Attack Imminent

SOFFIA, March 7.—Neutral military observers heard tonight that German troops massed on the Greek and Turkish frontiers may launch an attack from Bulgaria on eastern Macedonia and Thrace "within 48 hours."

More than 150,000 Nazi troops, hundreds of tanks and armored cars already are in position for a quick attack.

With the Axis push expected at any moment, diplomatic observers watched Yugoslavia and Turkey for indications of how those two Balkan entente allies of Greece would behave when Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg army starts rolling.

From the heights south of Zlatograd, the Germans massed on the frontier could see the blue waters of the Aegean sea across the Greek border.

The Aegean port of Salonika, backdoor to the Balkans, would be the first immediate objective of any German thrust across Greece.

British Rush Equipment

The British were reported rushing all their spare equipment to the Turks, the Germans commandeered transport to accelerate the flow of Nazi troops to the Greek frontier, and the Greeks hastily strengthened their fortifications.

The British, it was said, were making every effort to strengthen their allies against the first shock and were rushing equipment to the Turks, who are in a position to launch a flank attack on the German army if it attempts an invasion of Greece.

Greek diplomatic quarters here said they believed the Turks would launch a drive into the Rhodope mountains, a chain extending east and west along the Bulgarian-Greek frontier, if Germany does attempt an offensive.

The Greek army "absolutely will fight any German invasion," these quarters said.

Preparing for all eventualities, the Greeks were reported removing civilians from the threatened area in Thrace, and bolstering with troops and artillery their positions along the narrow defiles of the Struma.

To observers it appeared likely that Greek General Alexander Papagos, intended to abandon Thrace, the narrow coastal sector between the Struma and Turkey, as indefensible. Bulgaria long has covered at least part of it.

Two truck drivers, W. S. Melone of Pittsburgh and Seth Tucker of Perry, N. Y., were nabbed by the patrol yesterday on charges of driving vehicles which were overweight. Arraigned before Justice Jones, Melone was fined $25 and costs and Tucker $12.50 and costs.

BEAUTIFUL THEORY

The state of Ohio, barred from going into long-term debt by law, has a fighting chance to put some meat on its bones against the coming of the lean years. It is a beautiful theory.

The federal government, using long-term debt, is furnishing the motive power for a war boom. It recaptures some of the boom's expense in larger income from taxation. Ohio, which isn't paying out anything to keep the boom going, also has a chance to profit from larger revenues.

Whatever extra money the state picked up in this way could be used for two purposes; liquidation of obligations previously incurred, such as the school foundation debt, and improvement of the state's capital plant, such as erecting new buildings at welfare institutions.

On the other hand, if something happened and no extra money were forthcoming, the state would be just where it was before—provided that it hadn't increased its own budget. It's as simple as adding up 2 and 2 to get 4.

In a general sense, the theory has been applied to the budget submitted by Gov. Bricker. Though it will be charged by snipers that the Republicans in Columbus are spending money like water, the fact is that the lid has been clamped on operating expense. Instead of gambling on larger revenue to cover larger expenditure, the Bricker regime has gambled on larger revenue to improve the state's financial situation at the end of 1942. It has recommended the same policy to local government.

In some such way, if state and local governments accept their responsibility, the strain on government finance imposed by the defense program can be eased against the inevitable day when the federal government will be unable to continue deficit financing any longer.

THE POWER TO TAX

Taxation experts are dividing their time between wondering how big the income tax collection will be this year and how much more can be collected next year. To adapt an old saying to an eternal problem, these are times that try men's pocketbooks. But they are not unique.

Taxes in the United States are destined to become higher as far as anyone now living can peer into the future with a telescope. But some thing could have been said 150 years ago; taxes are the price human beings pay for the luxury of organized social existence. They object, but they go on paying.

The refrain of "T-a-x spells heaven!" as shouted by the more zealous advocates of the More Abundant Life is, of course, a distorted picture. On the whole, the zealots are inclined to feel too rosy, just as taxpayers, giving voice to the strain of anarchy that comes to the surface in most of them at taxpaying time, are inclined to feel too gloomy.

Somewhere between the extremes is a common ground for consideration of the tax problem as it affects all Americans. It is a good sign that many of them who never occupied any common ground on the question before lately are beginning to drift in that direction. Fearful on the one hand lest their government waste public money, they are also fearful lest what they regard as the justifiable costs of the American society they intend to preserve may not be met squarely due to the legislative axiom that it is bad politics to boost taxes.

If, as now seems inevitable, congress must tackle the problem of raising more revenue, the people are insistent that the job should be undertaken realistically. That means the objective should be maximum revenue and minimum interference with the sources of revenue. It means assurance that public money will be spent prudently to do what the people want to do, which is to save their way of life by the power to tax.

IF MEXICO WERE BULGARIA

Official announcement that their government is discussing plans for joint defense with the republic of Mexico suggests a comparison with a recent event in Europe.

When Germany discussed plans for joint defense with Bulgaria—the defense of Rumania, not Germany—the discussion was accompanied by a massing of troops on the smaller country's exposed northern border.

There was no doubt at any time what the alternative to agreement with Germany's position would be. Bulgarians knew the other party to the discussion would let nothing stand in the way; in its explanation to Russia, issued after Nazi German troops were on Bulgarian soil, Berlin said no restrictions deemed necessary for Britain's defeat would be tolerated.

From time to time there is reported from various points in Latin America a feeling of animosity toward "Yankee imperialism." The feeling is said to be a factor in the negotiations with Mexico. The United States is not smothered with affection in Mexico or any other part of Latin America.

Perhaps this cannot be avoided; it may be the inevitable consequence of strength in international relations. But it would be a dull Mexican statesman who would not count himself lucky when dealing with Yankees that the new "realism" which Japan introduced more than a decade ago and which Germany, Russia and Italy have improved on since then has not yet penetrated Washington.

We are still unconvinced about cotton making the most satisfactory air raid shelter protection, although it might work out all right if used as a summer slip cover.

There is a growing suspicion that some of the things proposed to be done "short of war" are in the hands of individuals who are poor judges of distance.

President, Ministerial Association

Blessed Jesus, we adore Thy boundless love which caused Thee to give Thy life for us on the cross. We thank Thee that when we had neither light nor strength, to desire Thee or to choose Thee, Thou didst choose us and didst ordain us as Thy friends. Go with us, O Lord, as we travel the steep ascents of life. Comfort when our distress is keenest. Support us when else we would stumble and fall. In Thy companionship may we forget our weariness and lose our fears. Keep us in Thy grace. Help us to realize that around us are the everlasting arms. Help us to face the years yet unborn with courage, because we know that we can meet them in Thy strength and love. And to Thee, O Christ, be the praise and the glory forever. Amen.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, March 8

THE ADMIRABLE fortunes and engagements of the previous days may rise to the highest of culminations on this day, according to a brilliant chain of planetary aspects. These hold happy intervention in all phases of life—business, financial, social, domestic, intellectual and emotional—all rising to exalted levels of enjoyment and satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a joyous, prosperous and happy year, with all ambitions and aspirations reaching high goals of achievement and psychological satisfactions. It seems the climax to many lofty ideals, emotional yearnings and more solid but worthy objectives.

A child born on this day should be boundlessly endowed with all the gifts and symbols of a highly successful, gratifying and happy life as well as a humane and useful one.

Urges New Mediation Board

Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson (left) amplifies his views to Hutton W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, after testifying before the group. Patterson said the War Department is "concerned" about the loss of time through strikes in defense industries and urged creation of a board similar to the Taft-Walsh Mediation Board of World War days.

DISCUSSION OF ANGINA PECTORIS

Concerning the Heart and Its Ailments

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I have been asked to discuss the difference between coronary thrombosis and angina pectoris. The terms, formerly purely technical, have found their way into ordinary language. "Thrombosis" means the plugging of a blood vessel by a clot of blood, and "coronary" refers to the arteries that supply the heart muscle. Of course, when a coronary artery is stopped by a blood clot, the part of the heart muscle supplied by the artery goes temporarily out of business.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

business. This would not be particularly serious for some muscle bundles, but the heart needs all of its muscles all of the time, which is what makes the condition serious. Fortunately the heart has a sick collateral circulation and when one artery goes out of commission temporarily, other arteries supply its area with blood.

When a clot forms in a coronary artery, there is produced a sudden acute and excruciating pain in the chest—angina pectoris—which means pain in the chest. It may not be over the heart; in fact, it is more likely to be under the upper or lower part of the breastbone. It is often called "acute indigestion," but there is no acute indigestion sufficiently severe to cause sudden death, which angina pectoris frequently does.

Cause of Angina

So we may say that coronary thrombosis causes angina pectoris. This is a fairly modern conception. Formerly all heart pangs and breast pangs were called angina pectoris and considered to be due to spasm of the coronary artery. Dr. James Mackenzie, the greatest heart specialist of his day, who died as late as 1925, described his own case but did not recognize its nature, although he had a number of attacks. In his great text-book on the heart, he tells of a man who had severe angina pectoris seventeen years before he had to cut down his activities. It was his own case he was describing, but he did not know it was caused by coronary thrombosis.

Since his time we have learned a great deal about it. With the electrocardiograph instrument for recording the electrical waves that go through the heart, we can make such an exact diagnosis as to tell what coronary artery is involved—right or left.

Sometimes the damage from coronary thrombosis heals completely and the patients are able to resume full activity. But the most important thing in treatment is a thorough period of rest when the attack first comes on. Nearly always a certain amount of limitation of activity has to be imposed for several years. The treatment has been divided into three stages—during the acute stage, rest, and the use of such medicines as nitroglycerine which relaxes the arteries. The second stage is still rest, but with a little activity. The third stage is the establishment of a standard of rest and activity.

Lenten Reducing Diet

Planned by Chef Louis Azuni
Breakfast: Two prunes — no cream; 2y-cr-sp toasted; orange marmalade; coffee without sugar, cut cream.

Lunch: Glass of milk; two whole wheat crackers; fruit salad.

Dinner: Vegetable soup, bread and butter; string beans and corn; coffee—no sugar, teaspoonful cream.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. H. W.: "What causes palpitation of the heart and skipping beats? Is it dangerous? Would race or high blood pressure cause the heart to palpitate? What is the remedy, if any?"

Answer: The condition which you describe is evidently what is known technically as "extra systole." The feeling is one of a skipped heart beat which is perceptible to the individual. This is so common in people after the age of 45 as to be almost universal. It is not dangerous unless it bothers the victim unduly. The best remedy is exercise because it is supposed to be due to irritability of the heart and if the body is tired this usually drives away the extra systoles. It often occurs from gas in the stomach and can be associated with high blood pressure.

L. W.: "Because of tetter my doctor has advised that I use only olive oil in cleansing my face. Will the olive oil cause superfluous hair?"

Answer: No.

P. M.: "I was born with a rupture 25 years ago and it now troubles me after much exercise and working. Would you recommend an operation?"

Answer—I would certainly recommend having it treated by an experienced surgeon by whatever method he suggests. Probably operative treatment is the best.

Reader:—"Could nervousness be a factor in raising one's sedimentation rate?"

Answer:—The sedimentation rate of red blood corpuscles is due to the weight of the corpuscles. These have a normal weight and fall to the bottom of a test tube solution at a fixed rate. Physical causes only—tuberculosis and pregnancy notably—cause change in the weight of the corpuscles.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Returning to comedy, the field of their biggest and best successes, Robert Montgomery and Robert Montgomery play the title roles in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" at the State tonight and Saturday.

The supporting cast includes Gene Raymond, in a romantic role as Montgomery's wife-stealing law office partner; Jack Carson as one of Montgomery's parents; Esther Dale as Miss Lombard's mother; Charles Halton as a representative of the Chamber of Commerce; and Betty Compton as a Broadway gold-digger.

Alfred Hitchcock, brilliant British director of "Foreign Correspondent," "Rebecca," "25 Steps" and "The Lady Vanishes" turns out another hit with the story of a couple married three years before they find out that their marriage wasn't legal.

The comedy of American marriage manners and morals almost makes forgettable Mr. Lombard's "Vigil in the Night" and, for some, Montgomery's "Night Must Fall" and "The Earl of Chicago."

At the Grand tonight and Saturday is a Bill Elliott western adventure film, "Beyond the Sacramento."

FARMERS TO GET CROP, FEED LOANS

Emergency crop and feed loans for 1941 will be available to farmers in Columbiana county again this spring. Applications for these loans will be received in the agricultural extension office in the basement of the court house on Friday evening, March 21, between 7 and 9.

All farmers interested in these loans for this spring should plan to make their applications out at this meeting on March 21. G. L. Huffman, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan section of the Farm Credit administration, will be in charge of the loans and will be assisted in receiving applications by the agricultural extension agents.

These loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are low and who cannot obtain loans from any other source, including production credit associations, banks, and other private concerns or individuals. As in former years, loans will be limited to the applicant's necessary cash needs in producing his 1941 crops, which will include seed, fertilizer and spray materials. No loans can be made for livestock or equipment used in producing any crops.

Borrowers who obtain loans for the production of cash crops will require to give as security a first lien on the crop financed. Applications for these loans will be received only during the period announced above.

Township Problems to Be Discussed in Lisbon

Activities in the home extension program of Columbiana county for the coming year were discussed last week when a meeting was held at the Methodist church in Lisbon by the extension leaders from the various townships.

Representatives from the 10 townships selected a list of projects for 1941 and 1942 including redecoration of walls, window treatment, making of salads, sewing machine clinics, land use studies and achievement day.

Redecoration of wall and window treatment will be the major projects to be taken up by the various township groups during this next fall. In addition, a nutrition project the making of salads will be conducted by the leaders.

Besides the county-wide projects, the various townships will receive help on request projects which will include child care, home accounts, kitchen studies, landscaping and vegetable gardening.

Friday, April 4, is the date set for the annual achievement day with Mrs. Wade Clark selected as chairman. Committees for achievement day will meet in Lisbon next week to make definite plans for the day. Discussion of the work was in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Hamman, assistant state home demonstration leader, and Erma Ramseyer, home demonstration agent, Columbiana county.

REFUGEE TREK TO CARIBBEAN SLOW

Total By End Of Year In Dominican Area Is Set At 1,300

(By United Press)
PITTSBURGH, March 4.—Three hundred European refugees already have settled in the Dominican Republic and 1,000 more are expected to be established there by the close of 1941, George L. Warren, executive secretary of the President's Advisory Council on Political Refugees, revealed here.

Refugees are beginning a new phase of their lives on a 23,000-acre settlement donated by the Dominican Republic for their rehabilitation. Another 80,000 acres have been added to the original plot by a donation of Gen. Rafael Trujillo, former president of the republic.

The plan to rehabilitate the refugees, Warren explained, was evolved at Evian, France, shortly after the Austrian Anschluss with Germany in 1938. The meeting was attended by representatives of 32 countries, including the United States.

Under terms of the Evian conference, The Dominican Republic agreed to accept 100,000 refugees. The refugees recently begun to arrive in numbers and are coming into the country every week in groups of 10 or 25, Warren said.

European representatives of the committee select the refugees carefully, on the basis of character and possible contributions they will be able to make to the new communities. Most were living in Western Europe, where they fled from countries invaded by the totalitarian nations.

Reception areas where they live in the Caribbean country are underpopulated lands, generally devoted to one crop. Under the rehabilitation plan, it is believed, many of the refugees will introduce diversified crops and eventually may enter many types of manufacturing and industry that do not compete with current operations.

Modern Colonies Planned
The finished community will have a place for representatives of all trades, occupations and professions, and living and working conditions will be enhanced by modern scientific equipment to as great a degree as possible, according to Warren.

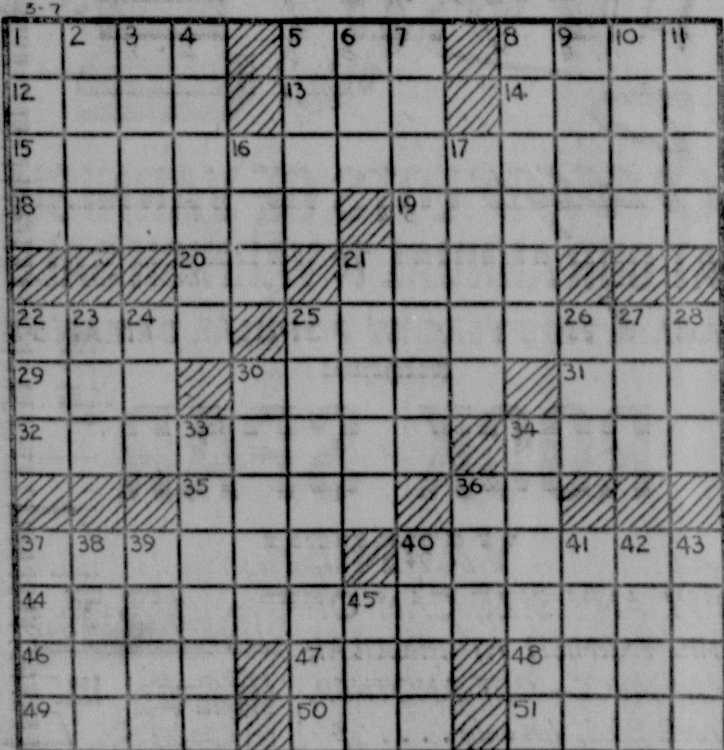

Cost of transportation from Europe to the settlement area, which is near Puerto Plata in Dominica, is paid by the American-Jewish Joint Distribution Committee or by relatives of the refugees. In many instances the money is advanced in the form of loans, to be repaid when the refugee re-establishes himself.

Eventual size of the communities, Warren said, will be determined by the rate of production of both agricultural and industrial materials. The Falk Foundation, of Pittsburgh, has appropriated $50,000 for a survey.

SCHOOLGIRL'S FROCK SHOULD BE SIMPLE, WASHABLE

Most girls in their early teens are very clothes conscious. It's a turning point from childhood to adulthood. It is apt to be a strain on the family budget if a new wardrobe must be purchased all at one time, but with careful planning smart frocks can be made up at home at very little expense. Pattern companies this spring have paid a great deal of attention to the needs of this age group, and if you take the psychological time to teach your daughter to sew, she will be enthusiastic about learning to make pretty frocks for herself.

Actual school frocks should be simple and washable. Above at left is such a frock in striped cotton seersucker with white collar. Our second model, center, is a combination of sports and school frock. The pert pinafore dress with blouse and tennis shorts is a grand idea. The apron skirt buttons up the back, and the white pique blouse has matching tennis shorts for active play hours. The all-important first long-skirted party frock is shown right. It is in a colorful printed pique with ruffles of lace-edged organdie.

BRITISH PUBLIC NOW BLITZ-MINDED

Scenes of Destruction No Longer Grip Consciousness

NEW YORK—Within the space of a few days, this correspondent has been in the two greatest cities of the world—London, beleaguered capital of an empire in arms, and New York, metropolis of the nation whose decisions may decide the course of the war.

It was a great jump to go last fall from North American security to the heart of the war; to leave the comforts and luxuries of the United States and enter a blacked-out, strictly rationed civilian front line.

It was no less a mental upset to come back to peaceful scenes again.

Three months of London air raids have made me blitz-minded. I looked once more at New York's towering skyscrapers—and wonder only how they would stand the effect of aerial torpedoes blowing 60-foot craters in the pavement at their foundations. The lofty pinnacles of the highest buildings in the world arouse only a thought of what would happen if the top four or five stories were blown by high explosive bombs into the roadway below.

Peculiarly Circus Black

And what a blackout job it would be to board up each night the city's millions of gleaming windows. Times Square pitch dark and deserted by 8 o'clock every night, like its counterpart Piccadilly Circus in London.

Theaters closed by 9; no lighted store windows; the sidewalks empty except for an occasional policeman or air raid warden.

New York's elevated and underground railways stand out as weak points. They would be bombed to shambles in no time, tying up both rail and street transportation. You could never shelter in the city's subway stations at night, with only a thickness of concrete roadway above you. Sleeping Londoners are shaken in their tubes 60 feet and more below ground.

New York's after dark traffic would find it strange to creep around in pitch blackness, a tiny dim glow for headlights and traffic signals cut to a slit.

In the early months of the war Londoners complained that it was impossible to see their hoods, almost painted-out traffic lights. Now they complain that the lights are too bright, and point to bomb damage in main thoroughfares to support their assertion that even these tiny pencils of colored light must be visible from the sky.

Wreckage Just Ignored

For you to get used to the war environment—that's the strange part of it. The shattered buildings or blocks of buildings which you pass every day soon cease to take an active hold on your consciousness. Even new scenes of destruction now fail to shake the Londoner's calm.

He goes to a usual haunt for a cup of tea or coffee. He finds the place burned out. He goes to the office in the morning—and finds the building is a large hole full of rubble. Next night he learns he must get out of the underground train halfway home and continue by bus—a station has been hit.

It's just one bombed thing after another. I walked by one of London's busiest corners one afternoon, near St. Paul's Cathedral on the edge of the financial district. It was normal, crowded, bustling. Two nights later I was back there again—to watch the worst fire the city has experienced since it was burned out in 1666.

More Honors for Him

Leonard Weisberg and wife

Leonard Weisberg, heroic New York City cabbie who nearly lost his life when he went to the aid of a patrolman, slain in a street gun duel in New York, is pictured being kissed by his wife after being made a special officer of the Miami Beach, Fla., police force. Weisberg and wife were vacationing at Miami Beach.

Nazi Troops Ready to Strike at Greece

This map of the Balkan crisis shows possible moves of the army of half a million Nazis who occupied the Bulgarian capital of Sofia (1) and the seaport, Varna (2), as Bulgaria joined the Axis. Part of the Reich army moved on to the Greek frontier, ready for a thrust at Salonika (3). Other German divisions may seek to reach the Dardanelles, despite Russia's objections.

GREAT LAKES WATER LOSS IS ALARMING, EXPERT SAYS; CONSERVATION IS URGED

(By United Press)
CHICAGO — The Great Lakes soon will be in the same condition as forests and other depleted natural resources unless action is taken to conserve their waters, according to H. A. Musham, Chicago naval architect.

Musham, through a study conducted for a shipping firm, concluded that the lake levels would be appreciably lowered if the present rate of dissipation is maintained. "Lake levels fluctuate regularly on a 23-year cycle from high to high," he said. "We know exactly how much water will be lost in 23 years. Lake Michigan has dropped four feet since 1851 and will drop four more feet within the next 23 years, providing present conditions continue."

Musham explained that each foot lost is irretrievable and represents immeasurable governmental and private expense because canal and river channels must be deepened to compensate for the drop. Smaller ships and smaller cargoes eventually would result, increasing the cost of lake transportation.

Nation Seen As Affected
"What we must do, in effect," Musham said, "is save the Great Lakes as far as commercial use is concerned—a project that directly or indirectly affects every one in the United States. For the lakes are undoubtedly one of our greatest natural resources."

As a solution, he suggested construction of regulatory works to be placed in the St. Clair river, affecting Lakes Michigan and Huron; in the St. Lawrence river, affecting Lake Ontario, and in the Niagara river, affecting Lake Erie. (Works already have been built at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to control the depth of Lake Superior.)

"These works can be of two types," Musham said. "The true regulatory works, comprised of dam, spillway and locks, should be installed. If constructed properly, they would last forever, would entail no great engineering problem and could be built in four or five years."

The second type, the compensatory works, is a submerged dam over which water flows. Shippers rightfully object to them because they would interfere with their business. Furthermore, they would not be practical," Musham said.

Opposing Interests Clash
"The depletion of lake waters has led to continual controversy and litigation over their dispensation. Shipping, water power and Mississippi valley interests and sanitary boards all have joined in a free-for-all contest over the supply."

"The proposed St. Lawrence waterway project has been opposed by interests fearing it would further reduce the lake levels. "All of this argument is futile and pointless," Musham declared. "There can be plenty of water for everyone with a little concerted effort. With regulatory works, lake depths could be regulated to the half foot."

"Deeper lakes mean deeper harbors and rivers, saving millions of dollars that would go for harbor improvement and the remodeling and construction of ships. Chicago could have plenty of clear water for its river, and everyone would be satisfied. What is more important, the Great Lakes would be saved."

EX-CLERK GUILTY, IS JURY'S VERDICT

an acquittal verdict, declaring that the late Shelton Overdorf, former East Liverpool auditor and later county auditor, was responsible for the shortage.

Prosecutor Frank Springer defended Overdorf's memory and asked conviction of the defendant.

Uncovered by Riegler
Overdorf died July 9, 1933, three months after assuming the county office. A month later State Examiner Ralph Riegler of Canton began an inspection of East Liverpool city records for the 17-month period between April 1, 1932, and Aug. 31, 1933. It was then that the shortage was uncovered.

Miss McNicol was dismissed Aug. 31, 1939, by Andrew Biram, East Liverpool city auditor, after allegedly admitting she was responsible for the missing funds.

Under cross-examination yesterday, however, the elderly defendant, speaking in a low, calm voice, said "I never took a cent of city money."

AIR FUEL TANKS TAX SCIENTISTS AT WRIGHT FIELD

(By United Press)
DAYTON—Self-sealing gasoline tanks for army air corps airplanes are testing the ingenuity of experts at Wright field here, site of the air corps' testing laboratory.

In modern combat the airplane fuel tank is one of its most vulnerable parts and the problem of providing adequate protection has never been completely solved. New and better types of self-sealing tanks are constantly being developed, but the calibers and penetrating powers of aircraft guns catch up with and pass the protective powers of the tanks, and the see-saw race is on again.

Aircraft engineers long ago abandoned the obvious solution of building gasoline tanks out of armor sufficiently heavy to stop bullets from the largest aircraft guns. The weight of the armor would require sacrificing an equal weight of gasoline or armament. In its place, the engineers concentrated on a gasoline tank which would absorb gun-fire without losing precious fuel through bullet holes. This meant an adequate lining inside the tank which would make the tank self-sealing.

Requirements Are Rigid
This material must be strong enough to resist bulging through bullet holes, must be insoluble to gasoline, incapable of being shattered into debris which would clog the fuel lines, and yet swell fast enough upon being pierced to form a positive sealing element.

At Wright field, new types of self-sealing materials are subjected to a series of five tests. Vibration and sloshing tests prove whether the tank assembly is rugged enough to withstand the stresses of military service.

Gum extraction tests reveal whether the sealing materials contaminate aviation gasoline in any way. Next comes an aging test, in

FINLAND AFRAID OF HUNGER CRISIS

Meager Supplies of Food
Will Not Last Until Harvest

HELSINKI — Finland's rapidly dwindling food supplies and other vital commodities have shrunk below the low mark that was anticipated last fall.

Present rations are considered to be close to the "starving line" and no further curtailment is contemplated despite the shortage. Imports are declared by experts to be imperative to tide Finland over until the harvest.

This little country's problem is far different from that of other European lands as its difficulties are not due solely to the British blockade. Finland, for instance, could buy some of the needed commodities from Soviet Russia if a loan could be arranged. The Finnish-Russian trade pact provides that Finland must pay cash (meaning U. S. dollars) if it gets more than $500,000 in arrears with goods delivered to Russia. That limit has been almost reached and deliveries cannot be speeded because of a shortage of raw materials. The only solution would be to pay cash for more Russian oil and wheat.

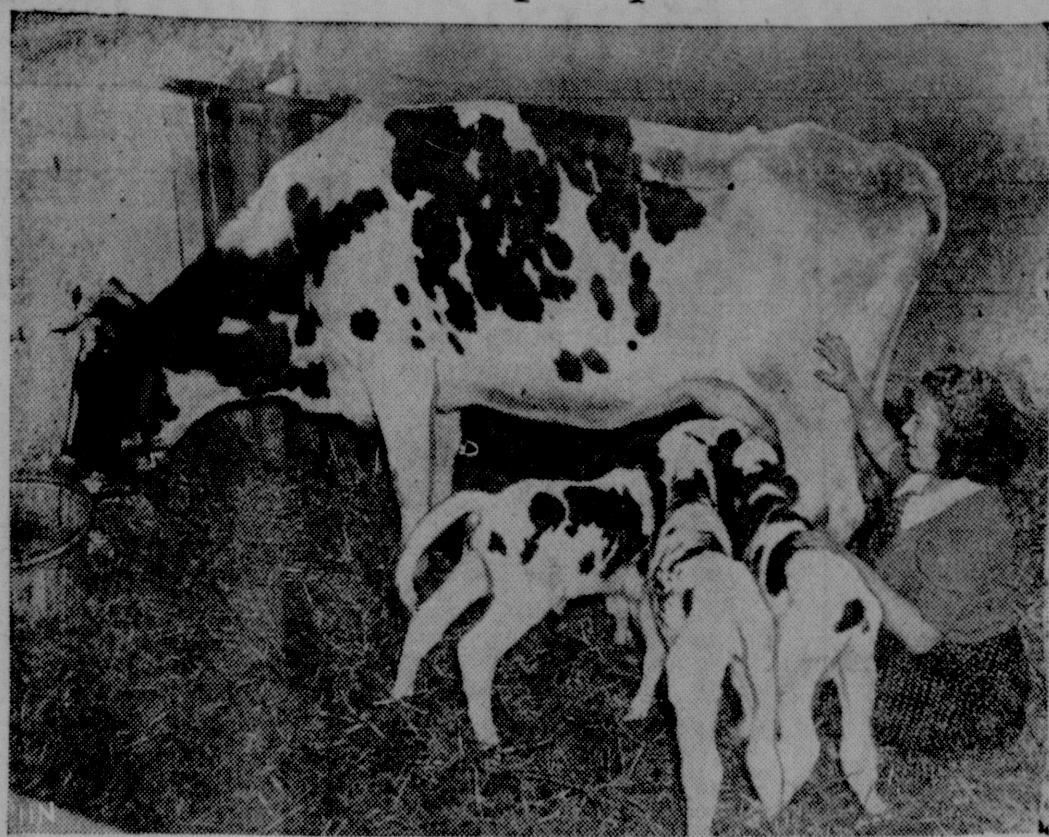

School News AT DAMASCUS

So far Finland has made no move in that direction, probably because the amount of goods it can obtain under the trade pact is limited and would solve problems only temporarily. Finland, however, has taken the initiative to get a credit of $700,000 from the United States. With such a credit it could buy only goods produced in the United States but this would be sufficient to cover the most urgent needs. Goods Finland wants to buy from the United States are: 4,000 tons of margarine fat, 7,000 tons of lard, 25,000 tons of wheat, 10,000 tons of wheat flour, 10,000 tons of oil cake, and 9,000 tons of cotton.

Apart from the United States, Finland also could buy wheat and other foodstuffs in South America but here, too, the problem how to finance such purchases has become acute. Up to now Finland has profited from the $30,000,000 loan which was made during the war but this fund is exhausted.

But apart from the financial problem, there also is the political one, the problem of navicerts. Britain is unwilling to allow Finland to accumulate stocks of any goods of potential military importance. Negotiations between the two countries are going on in a friendly atmosphere and have been more promising of late as far as raw materials for Finnish industries are concerned. It is believed in financial circles here that an American credit or loan would be helpful even in this respect and pave the way to more navicerts.

Maisie's No Slacker, Steps Up Production, Too

Since everybody seems to be stepping up production these days, Maisie, cow owned by a Lindenhurst, L. I. dairy, gave birth to triplet calves which proved a rare event.

PROPOSES DRIVE ON HIGHWAY TOLL

AAA Chief Outlines Six-Point Program to Reduce Fatalities

WASHINGTON—Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, has proposed a six-point program to lower the soaring death rate on highways jammed with national defense traffic.

At the same time, Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Automotive Safety foundation, warned that traffic fatalities will mount even higher in 1941 unless further advances are made in safety engineering, education and enforcement.

Points of Trouble Cited

Pointing out that expansion of defense industries and military camps and the movement of large numbers of people to new employment centers has made the traffic problem acute, Henry proposed:

1. A nationwide survey of the "points of trouble."
2. An increase in the use of mass transportation, "even if it be necessary to obtain emergency certificates of convenience and necessity."
3. Maximum police control and plant exits and entrances.

4. Plotting of alternate routes on heavily-traveled roads.

5. Flood-lighting of "danger points" at plants having three shifts, 24-hour schedules.

6. Insertion by management of warnings and safe driving messages in employees' envelopes.

Hoffman declared that great expansion in present traffic control facilities is necessary to meet "the unusual problems which this country is facing in national defense." He said present equipment is "just about adequate" to meet the problems of 20 years ago.

Traffic Personnel Inadequate

"In the last 20 years, automobiles have increased from 9 to 30 million; drivers from 10 to 45 million—and traffic fatalities have more than doubled," Hoffman said. "But there has been only a negligible increase in the number of traffic officers, court facilities and trained accident-prevention personnel."

"Our traffic officials are not to blame," he said. "They know what to do. Unfortunately, most of us have been expecting them to 'dig a ditch with a spoon.' We have not given them the men, money and materials to keep pace with the traffic accident problem."

He said the nation needs:

1. At least 13,000 more city traffic officers.
2. Twice the present number of state traffic officers.
3. A thousand more expert traffic engineers.
4. Proportionate increases in driver license examiners, safety directors and "other specialized personnel."

VANCOUVER, B. C. — An unidentified man asked the toll gatekeeper of the new bridge across Vancouver harbor if he would have to pay toll to go out on the bridge. He was told no, if he were not going entirely across the bridge. He replied that he wasn't. Then, he strode onto the bridge and leaped to his death 200 feet below.

Baseball Briefs from Training Camps

(By Associated Press)

TAMPA, Fla. — The world champion Cincinnati Reds will examine their shortstop problem in competition today with their first exhibition game against the Boston Red Sox.

Eddie Jost has been conceded the inside track for the vacancy left by the trading of Billy Myers, but Manager Bill McKechnie is giving a lot of attention to Bobby Mattick, who came from the Chicago Cubs in the deal.

ORLANDO, Fla. — Whatever honor is attached to hurling the Washington Senators' first exhibition Sunday will go to young Walter Masterson. Manager Bucky Harris had planned to use Rookie Joe Beck for the first three-inning stretch, but changed his mind.

SALENTINO, Tex. — Casey Stengel is getting his Boston Red Sox ready to face a lot of southpaw pitching in the national league. As a tune-up for tomorrow's exhibition opener with the St. Louis Browns, he ordered a camp game today with lefthanders scheduled to do all the hurling.

HAVANA — Harry Eisenstat, Marv Center and Joe Krakauskas were assigned to the pitching mound today for Cleveland's exhibition against the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Indians arrived yesterday and worked out for two hours in Tropical park.

WOTAN'S WEDGE

by FRANCIS GERARD
A PRELUDE TO BLITZKRIEG

SYNOPSIS

The scene has changed from Junker-ruled East Prussia at the turn of the century to the London of the "apprehension period" following Munich.... from the glamour of a fatal "affair of honor" among the highborn to the gloom of a coroner's inquest among the lowly. Matthew Beef, retired police sergeant attends the grim proceeding because the "victim," a supposed suicide was his nephew, Bert Slatter. A morgue attendant has just shown Beef the fatal gunshot wound.

CHAPTER TEN

"Streuth," said Beef. "Pore Bert. Tell me," he said, "was he lying down when he shot himself?"

The other shook his head. "I dunno. I think he was supposed to have been sittin' in a chair when he done it."

"Pore bloke," said Beef. "All right. Wrap 'im up. That's Bert all right."

"Pore bloke," snorted the mortuary attendant. "E done himself in, didn't e?"

Ex-Sergeant Beef stared. "Wot of it?" he asked.

"Wot of it?" echoed the other. "It's written in the good book as 'ow no man shall lay violent hands upon his own life.' This cove did, so he done wrong see? I'm a God-fearing man, I am, and I know that it's written in the good book as no man shall lay violent hands upon himself."

Beef eyed the mortuary attendant uncharitably.

"You mind your words, young feller, or I'll lay violent hands on you. You're talking about me sister's son, so you mind your words."

It was sometime later during the giving of Mrs. Slatter's fearful evidence that the coroner turned to her and said, "And now, Mrs. Slatter, can you think of any reason which would have prompted your son to take his life?"

"E never done it," maintained Amelia stoutly. "E was a good boy, my Bert was, an' he would never demean 'imself by doin' such a thing. Why should e, sir?"

He'd just been given a raise, they was that pleased with him at the power station and Bert never 'ad no enemies. He was a good boy, though I say it."

"Yes, yes, Mrs. Slatter," replied the coroner gently. "I am sure everyone here deeply sympathizes with you in your loss, but if you are quite sure that the deceased had no motive to prompt him to suicide, then it must have been an accident."

"Accident!" cried Beef's sister. "That it never was. Why my Bert couldn't 'ave 'ad an accident with one of them revolvers. He knew all about 'em."

"But it was not a revolver, Mrs. Slatter," the coroner pointed out. "It was an automatic pistol."

Mrs. Slatter sniffed. "Pistol or revolver what difference would it have made to my Bert? He worked in a small-arms factory and those things was 'is particular line. I tell you, sir, he did know everything 'bout pistols or revolvers."

The coroner looked bewildered.

He referred to his notes and then, looking over the top of his spectacles at the witness, said, "I don't quite follow Mrs. Slatter."

"Well, 'e was what you might call an expert."

"Yes, yes," said the coroner. "That was not what I was referring to. A moment ago, in your evidence, you informed the court that your son had received an increase of salary from the power station. That is so, is it not?"

"That's right," said Mrs. Slatter. "Am I to take it, therefore, that deceased was employed in the power station near here, the South London Power Station?"

"Yes," replied the witness. "But you have just told us that he worked in a small-arms factory."

"So he did," said the coroner, "that that was a previous employment?"

"Not at all," said Mrs. Slatter. "My Bert was a worker, 'e was. He often described 'imself as one of the workers of the world and in one respect that 'e was, though, of course he meant somethin' different."

The coroner stared at her owlishly and said quietly, Mrs. Slatter, am I to take it that your son worked in a small arms factory and also at the power station here at one and the same time?"

"Of course not. 'Ow could e? 'E was a good boy but 'e wasn't no magician. You see, 'e went on leaning forward, 'my Bert wanted to get married. Set 'is 'eart on it 'e did and the young lady was particular so to speak. Come from a good 'ome she did and was particular. Quite right, too, same as I was when I married Slatter. So yer see Bert done his job at the arms factory during the day and at night he was took on regular at the South London Power Station as a watchman, a sort of door-keeper I think it was."

"Then he was doing two jobs," commented the coroner. "Rather difficult wouldn't you think?"

"Ah, that it was," nodded Amelia. "But Bert was proper set on his marryin' and he reckoned that 'e could save up enough in a year workin' so hard to provide for his young lady in the manner she expected."

"I see," the coroner picked up his pen and drew meaningless little figures on his blotting-paper. Then he looked up at the witness and said, "I put it to you, Mrs. Slatter, that it is possible that your son was suffering from overwork and therefore possibly in a mood which might induce suicidal tendencies?"

"If you mean my Bert done for 'imself, that's all nonsense. 'E was perfectly 'appy and was hinting at further money to come from somewhere. 'E was ambitious, my boy was, and a good boy save for all that nonsense of 'is with all 'em Community-ists."

"You mean he was a Communist?"

"Somethin' like that, sir. He'd joined a kind of lodge which called itself the Fellowship of the New Day. Pore lad he won't never see any more new days!"

At this point the witness dissolved once more into tears and the coroner waited patiently for her to recover.

"Tell me, Mrs. Slatter," he said gently, "how do you account for the presence of the weapon which was the cause of your son's death?"

"I can't, sir, I never knew 'e 'ad it, and what's more I don't believe 'e 'ad. My Bert never had no secrets from me and there was nowhere in his room where he could have hid it. I knew every nook and cranny of that room and I used to keep his drawers and shelves tidy with my own hands."

"But Mrs. Slatter," pointed out the coroner, "a bill of sale for the weapon was found in his pocket after his death. Here it is."

He thrust a sheet of thin grey-blue paper towards her. At the top was printed E Dubois et Cie, 15 bis rue Devitres, Bou'gne-sur-Mer, France.

"Have you ever seen this before, Mrs. Slatter?"

She shook her head. "No, sir, never. It's quite foreign to me."

The coroner smiled slightly. "It's quite foreign to all of us. It's an invoice of a shop in Boulogne on the French coast. Tell me, Mrs. Slatter, did your son ever go to France?"

"Yes, sir. He took one of them day trips with some friends of 'is to a place called Ecologney, but he didn't enjoy it poor lad. 'E was that sick."

"But if he went to Boulogne he could have purchased an automatic pistol over there."

"'E couldn't 'ave got a permit," Mrs. Slatter pointed out.

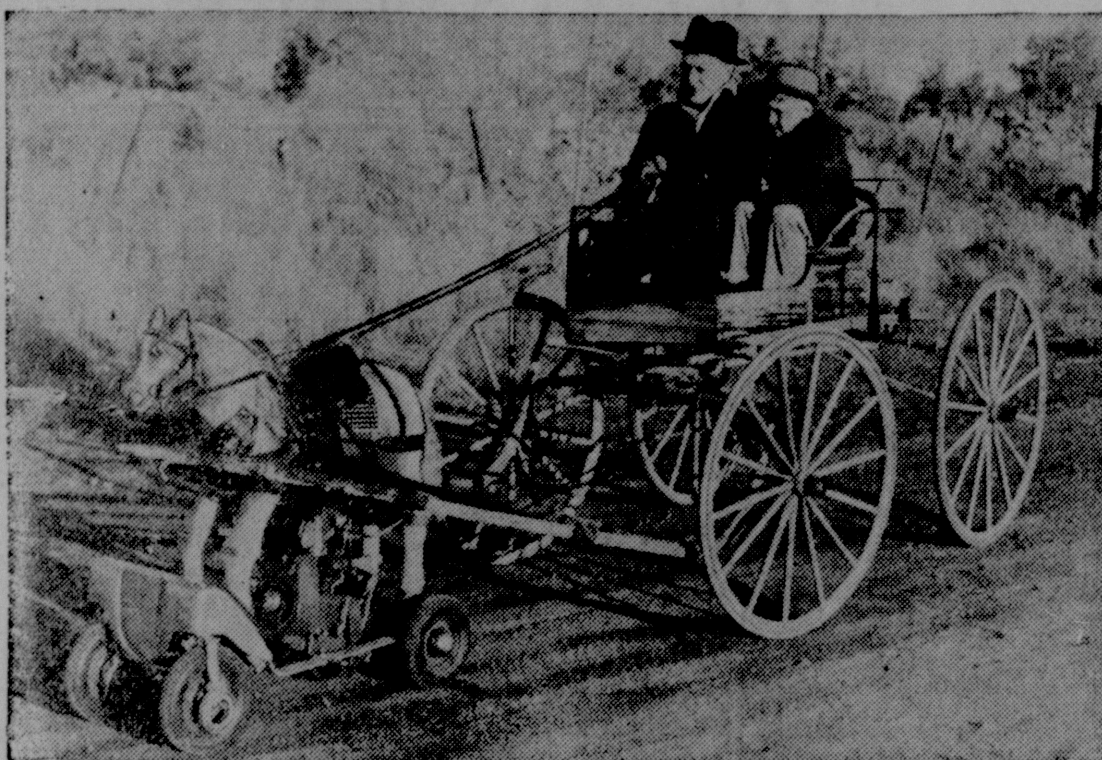

"At the time when this invoice was made out it was not necessary to have a permit to purchase a lethal weapon in France."

The woman shook her head and looked stubborn. "I can't believe it, sir. 'E would not have 'ad enough money to buy it. I remember for a fact that he was worried that day on account of his thinking that 'e 'adn't got enough with him because 'e was expected to stand treat same as the others and I'm sure, sir, he couldn't 'ave 'ad all that."

"These are francs not pounds, Mrs. Slatter," explained the coroner. He made a rapid calculation and added, "The price of this weapon would have been between three to four pounds."

"Well, there!" exclaimed Amelia. "I knew he couldn't 'ave 'ad all that."

Horse and Buggy Days Over? Well, Not Exactly!

Roy Sheldon and son out for a ride

What is it? Why, it's an automobile, combining the horse and buggy day formula with the speed of the modern vehicle. It's the invention of Roy Sheldon, a Redmond, Ore., machinist. The "horse" pulls the wagon at 15 miles an hour. Roy steers with his reins, the horse's head turning with the wheels. The gas feed, gear shift and brakes are in the wagon. One gallon of gas will run it all day. The horse has knee-action and gallops up and down as it pulls the wagon. The machine was made from cream separators, a washing machine, sheep-shearing gear, lawn mower, and auto parts.

Beef. "Funny though, Amelia being so sure the other way."

Bicycle Cowboy
LOS ANGELES—In true cowboy style, a messenger boy on a bicycle bull-dogged a runaway horse in downtown Los Angeles.

John Bishop overtook the animal, leaped from his wheel to the reins and pulled the horse to a stop.

The steed had thrown and injured seriously his rider, Isaac Sacks, 82.

Romeo
CICERO, Ind. — Richard Denny, celebrating his 100th birthday, said he couldn't remember whether he had been married nine or 13 times.

The Civil war veteran's present wife is 88.

"Women are easy to get," Denny observed. "When I got lonesome I just went out and got one."
